

THE SEASON IS CHANGING IN AIKEN:

The humid Summer days have passed as Aiken is now in the middle of Autumn. The days have gotten shorter and the mornings have gotten colder. Polo season is wrapping up and those who winter in Aiken will start arriving soon. With the change in weather means the grass loses its bright green color and some of the trees lose their leaves. Luckily for Aiken the weather and the ground both remain rideable allowing professionals and amateurs alike to continue to train through the winter months. Thanks to the many show facilities in Aiken, including Stable View, there are still plenty of opportunities to get in the show ring all winter long.
