

START THE NEW YEAR OUT RIGHT BY VOLUNTEERING

Want to gain a schooling pass or get some really cool volunteer swag? How about help some young riders achieve their goals or see Five-Star bound riders jump around? If you answered yes to any of the above then it sounds like you should volunteer at Stable View.

There are various volunteer position needed at Stable View. These vary from in-gates to jump judging to scribing and everything in between. Even if you can't volunteer all day or all weekend, your help is still appreciated! The satisfaction from watching a young horse go down the centerline for the first time, a young child jump around Sprouts at an Eventing Academy, and seeing Olympic-bound athletes in warm-up will be sure to make your experience worth it. Volunteers are the backbone to the sport and shows wouldn't happen without them. If you can't volunteer yourself, make sure to thank the volunteers who are next time you horse show.

Stable View's Volunteer coordinator is Melissa Rundt. Those interested in learning more about volunteering are encouraged to reach out to her: svvc@stableviewfarm.com
